DEBATERS TRYOUT FOR

State Students Plan Part in Oratorical Contest at Pacific College

DOUBLE SQUAD

Delta Sigma Members Plan Participation in Tournament

Delta Sigma, the debating society of the San Francisco Teachers College, is making a bid for western recognition in a debate at the College of the Pa-cific, Stockton, Calif., when it will participate in a tournament to be held there.

Debaters Chosen

The debaters are working on material for this contest and have put in a great deal of preliminary practice. A large squad has been chosen from which the final selection will be made. The members of this squad are: Margaret Camp, Barbara Parker, Jack Werchick, Robert Van Houte, Elsa Magnus, Claire Beer, Anna Schiague, Lynn Johnson, and Ed Cockrum. Another group is trying out for an oratorical contest which is also to be held in connection with the tournament at the College of the Pacific. Among students in this group are: Dorothy Skelley, Pierce Vaughn, Alice Heim, and Corinne Boylan.

Topic Is War Debts

Topic Is War Debts Topic Is War Debts

The subject of this meet is one much discussed and of very pronounced interest at this time. It is concerned with whether or not the United States should cancel all inter-allied war debts. Drs, Roy and Floyd Cave, professors of social science, recently held a discussion on this subject, and Mr. Welton, a German student of State, gave a talk on the European side of the situation.

Colleges from all parts of the Pa-

the situation.

Colleges from all parts of the Pacific Coast will participate in this meta, and with the number of talented students who are registered from this college, Delta Sigma has high hopes of winning.

Faculty Member Enjoys Downpour

At least one member of the faculty is enjoying the deluge that has been occurring of late. Mrs. Olive Thompson Cowell sighed as she gazed with rapture at a dismal drizzle. "I love the smell, the feel, the sound of rain. Why do people hate it when it washes the city, makes the grass green, and the trees and flowers grow? I love to walk in it. I envy the boys in their gym classes when they run out in the rain. We need it for food, to drink, to wash with. Rain is wonderfull" Okay, Mrs. Noah, may it rain and rain and rain

Campaign on Honor System Is Advocated

Class Ideals Should Be Established," States Miss McFadden

"Before an honor system can be es-tablished at State," stated Miss Effie McFadden, chairman of the science department, "there has to be some sort an educational campaign carried on which the students, through their rganizations, and through their col lege newspaper, discuss freely the subject of honesty and build up ideals." Miss McFadden says that this cannot be done in a campaign of two weeks or a month; it may take two years to bring co-operation in this respect. The students will have to have higher ideals than many of them now have. "I am, however, still optimistic enough to think that through a campaign of honestry an honer system can be estable to the state of the state ge newspaper, discuss freely the sub nonesty, an honor system can be es-tablished." said Miss McFadden.

PLAY PRESENTED BY COLLEGE CLASS

'Ten Minutes by the Clock" Was Given February 23

Alice Riley's charming fantasy, "Ten Minutes by the Clock," was presented in the Frederic Burk auditorium by members of Mr. King's play production class on Thursday afternoon, Feb tion class on Thursday afternoon, February 23.

The play, surrounding a critical moment in the royal palace, told of a culinary calamity that finally ended happily. A conventional old king, played by Kathrn Grassel, is disturbed by the unusual conduct of his freedom-loving queen, played by Helen Gray. Through the enchantment of a gypsy, portrayed by Molly Sylva, the queen escapes the ties of conventionality for a short while. With the help of her page, Marjorie Braunbeck, and the clock-work tactics of Dux and Dox, Dorothy Gorria and Henrietta Bineman, she is rescued. The law of the land is writ by Bitter Batter, another role taken by Miss Sylva, with the help of the king's butler, Johanna Sullivan, and eggs are boiled ten minutes for breakfast, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. days in the year.

WELL ATTENDED

Dr. Valentine Speaks at Sphinx Club Forum This Afternoon

Dr. George P. Hedley, of the Pacific School of Religion, defined religion as "a person's living scale of values applied to the actual conditions of life," when he spoke before the Sphinx Club on Wednesday, February 13. Already known to many of the members, having visited the State campus a year ago, the doctor was introduced by Leonard Glover, chairman of the meeting.

Large Audiences

Large Audiences

The large audience paid close attention to the slight figure of the middleaged speaker, who clasped and inclasped his slender hands behind his unclasped his slender hands behind his back as he sprinkled his earnest discussion with frequent smiles. "A Religion for Modern Youth" was his topic, which he developed after defining the requisites for an adequate philosophy for today. "It must be related to all of life," he explained. "It must admit free inquiry, for a religion that cannot face questions is one we might as well dispense with. It must be real and visible; not unreal and invisible, and concerned primarily with the after-life. It must involve practical service for social welfare." Dr. tical service for social welfare," Dr Hedley concluded.

Youth Must Initiate

Youth Must Initiate

With a better knowledge of historical religion and its fundamentals, youth can rebuild the present inadequate philosophy, according to the speaker. The present time, he believes, is a very good time, but it will be a difficult job. Youth must realize the great need for change, then plunge wholeheartedly into the task of creating a religion for the modern age. Dr. Hedley was obliged to leave early in order to make another engagement across the bay, but the usual Sphinx open forum continued at great length after his departure.

HIGH SOPHOMORES WELL PREPARED

Miss Clara Crumpton, Registrar, reports that the present class of high sophomores is better prepared for upper division work than any previous high sophomore class at State. After interviewing a majority of the class individually, in regard to their status for upper division work, Miss Crumpton states that as a whole they have less deficiencies than previous high sophomore classes. "I would like to express my gratitude to the members of the high sophomore class that I have interviewed, for the fine manner in which they have kept their appointments," stated Miss Crumpton, "and I hope to have finished interviewing the remaining members of the high sophomore class by March 7."

Weather Encourages Many Excursions

With the advent of bright, dry days, the students of the Frederic Burk school, and their teachers, are becoming excursion minded. Places of interest in San Francisco are being made the subjects of the student's close study. Such interesting places as the map in the Ferry Building, the prouce market, floral markets, Mt. Davidson, the deYoung Museum, the Steinhart aquarium, and Chinatown, with luncheon at a Chinese restaurant have been visited. These excursions form parts of units of work and are enjoyed immensely by the children.

Speech Book Published Miss Lilla B. McKenzie, speech in-tructor, has written two books. The Co-op has published these books, and they are now obtainable. They are to be used in connection with speech training courses. The titles of the books are: "Analysis and Synthesis of English Speech Sounds," and "A Correlation of Spelling With Speech Training."

TEA INAUGURATES SOCIAL ACTIVITIES OF FRANCISCANS

March 9 has been set by the Franciscan Club as the date of a tea to be given by the members in the Activities Room. This event is one of great interest to the participants as it will officially inaugurate the social activities of the club for the spring term. Various other affairs are scheduled. The importance of club work has been stressed by Lucy Weeks, president of the Franciscan Club, as a record of the extra-curricular activities of every student is kept in the office of Dean Mary A. Ward. This record is available to school principals, and is used as a basis of recommendation for a graduate applying for a position. New members will be received into this organization only until March 9, the date of the tea. After this day no one will be granted admission, as club functions and committee work will then be well under way.

Students Vote For Popularity Contest Today

In order to get a truly representative group of students and faculty for the pages of the 1933 Franciscan, the yearbook staff is sponsoring a student vote on the outstanding students and faculty members. Ballots were distributed for this purpose this morning. All votes must be cast by 4;30 today. Ballots must be deposited in the box in the journalism office, room 113 in College Hall.

Novel Idea

The contest, the first of its kind to be held at State, is to give the general student body a chance to select the outstanding students and faculty members on the campus. Heretofore students at State have never been given a charbe to select the most popular of chance to select the most popular of

MUSIC INSTRUCTOR OFFERS COMMENT ON HONOR SYSTEM

When asked as to what her ideas on the honor system were, Miss Ethel T. England, music instructor, said: "I think it is an ideal situation under ideal conditions. I believe that the majority of students would work under the honor system, but there are those who would either yield to strong temptations or who haven't prepared their work, and this would yield an injustice to those who are reliable."

Miss England says that as things now are during an examination, everybody has to be put on guard because of a small minority. According to human nature, in almost any group

PYSCHOLOGY CLUB HEARS DISCOURSE UPON PRISON LIFE

At the meeting of the Psychology Club on Monday, February 20, Mr. H. A. Shuder, Director of Education at San Quentin, delivered an informative lecture on "Prison Psychology."

Mr. Shuder said in part: "Religion is a fixation, as are radicalism and crime. My work in the field of education is to shake men loose from fixations. I believe with great enthusiasm that a vocational training for men and women in prison is a very desirable thing."

Mr. Shuder disclosed the surprising fact that not all the immates are morons, but that some of them are graduates from Cambridge, Oxford and Stanford. The reason for this according to Mr. Shuder is that: "They had resources, but they extended them too far in the wrong direction for their own good."

"Life in the prison is not at all dil"

"Life in the prison is not at all dull,' said Mr. Shuder. "Something happens almost every minute—it tires the life out of you, but it is tremendously stimulation."

In closing, Mr. Shuder remarked that, "We have, on the average, twenty-five thousand prisoners—if the season is good."

Failing to play "heads-up" baseball at critical stages of the game, the State nine lost a closely contested battle to Jefferson high school Friday, rebruary 17, on the Daly City diamond. The final score was 5 to 4.

The Gater tossers opened hostilities with a three-run rally in the first inning. Applebaum, Metler and Nickerson crossed the plate in the hitting spree which featured a triple by Metler. Jefferson retaliated with two runs in their half of the frame.

Freshman Jumper Is Found in Gym Class

The wisdom of Coach Dave Cox in making his freshman gym classes run the gauntlet of track events has unearthed a star high jumper.

The fellow in question is Jack (Spider Legs) Pommerantz. His uncanny ability for clearing the crossbar was brought to light Monday during gym classes, when in competition with his classmates he attained the height of five and a half feet. Although this is not a record-breaking feat, as Coast Cox points out, it was remarkable since Pommerantz is not in training and he lacked the necessary equipment.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By Arthur Rosenbaum

Fisticuffery, grand old sport of the ages, ain't what she used to be in and around these dear United States. Calloused sports observers are discarding many a sport, but they seem to be jumping off the boxing band-wagon in the greatest numbers.

Yet, peculiarly enough, the fight game seems to be on the remake in San Francisco, the cradle for some of the best talent ever developed. The reaction here has been surprising, but it can be explained in some measure.

Mind you, we hasten to remark that boxoffices here aren't feeling any such thing as a boom. It is merely, for the present at least, in the general con-versation and attitude of the ordinary sportsgoer.

Probably the ace reason for the start in the rejuvenation of boxing here is the enormous publicity given the sport in the daily papers. It all started several months ago when Harry B. Smith, sports editor of the "Chronicle," began his "When Fighters Fought" series.

The articles caught hold. Each issue found new readers. Other papers, hastening to "cover up," started spasmodic series of their own. Now any news about any old-time fighter is good for some space, and the general effect has been to revive interest all around.

The death of James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion and often called San Francisco's greatest fighter, heightened interest in old-time fighters. It was another boost for the series writers, and for days the sports pages were filled with items about Corbett's greatest forter. greatest fights.

Almost at the same time a new Cor-Almost at the same time a new Corbett came into the picture as welter-weight champion of the world. Young Corbett, nee Rafaelo Giordano, lives in Fresno but he started his boxing in San Francisco and has fought all his greatest fights here. San Franciscans consider him one of their own, and his winning of the title from Jackie Fields on Washington's Birthday means that San Francisco has a champion for the San Francisco has a champion for the first time in many years! A popular boy, Corbett will be a boost to the profession that made him great.

RACQUET WIELDERS

The only double winner for State was Aguirre, who won his singles matches in three sets, 4 to 6, 6 to 1, 1 to 0, and then later paired up with Samuels to trounce the Jaysee's third doubles combination, 6 to 3, 6 to 4.

By scoring 20 points in the Salinas Junior College game, Captain Tish Thomas leads all scorers in State's basketball games. For thirteen games he made 146 points, for an average of 11 points a game. Coach Farmer sees a valuable prospect for next year's with devastating drives. The scores were 7 to 5, 6 to 2.

San Jose T

Swimming Meet

Sau Jose State held and lost their first swimming meet to the strong Stanford frosh by the score of 43-35. The Spartans may be consoled in their loss because of the splendid showing made by some of their tankmen. Will Draper was outstanding for San Jose, taking first places in both the 50 and 100-yard free-style events. His times were 27:3 in the 50-yard, and 1:04 in the 100. Glen Holt, Spartan freshman, won the diving by 30 points over Booth of Stanford.

The above two men serve as an example of what the Gaters will be up against when they meet the Spartans in the drink.

There's one team on the coast that can stop Hal Eifert, the star forward of the California Bears, from scoring field goals and that is the University of San Francisco.

This is how it was done. Eifert recovered a free ball in the middle of what looked to be a sure two points for the Bears. There wasn't a single Don between Eifert and the bucket but Louie Batmale. Don guard, who made a flying tackle from behind and nailed Eifert in his tracks. The result was Eifert got a free throw that he missed. Going out for football. Louie?

GATERS WIN TENNIS MATCHES AT MARIN

Gaters opened its tennis schedule in an auspicious manner Saturday, February 18, by defeating the strong Marin Junior College tennis team, 9 to 0, in a series of matches played on the latter's courts across the bay. Playing under ideal climatic conditions, State's racquet wielders arose to the occasion and put forth a brand of tennis which was irresistible. Specially brilliant was the play of Gugat, whose well-placed drives and terrific overhead smashes proved too much for his, accomplished Mariner opponent, Baratti. Fred took the first set, 7 to 5, dropped the second, 5 to 7, but rallied in the third to win that, 7 to 5, and the match.

dropped the second, 5 to 7, but railied in the third to win that, 7 to 5, and the match.

Petty, though slightly off form, nevertheless carried too many guns for Dunlop, Marin's first man, who succumbed in straight sets. The scores were 7 to 5, 6 to 0.

A third standout for State was Joe Rosen, chunky southpaw, whose slices completely baffled his opponent to win him a 6 to 0, 9 to 7 victory.

The doubles combinations were equally successful. Petty and Gugat took Dunlop and Baratti into camp in straight sets, 6 to 3, 6 to 3. Arlington and Samuels more than duplicated the performance of their teammates by defeating Menzies and Schau, 6 to 2, 6 to 2. Rosen and Aguirre made it a perfect day for State by taking the last match from Orh and Andrews to the tune of 7 to 5, 6 to 1. Out of 20 sets played, the Gaters dropped only two.

Other singles scores were:

Samuels defeated Andrews, 6-1, 6-0. Aguirre defeated Schau, 6-1, 6-2.

Colleges Abolish Football Captain

Football captains will soon be a thing of the past. Two more of our major universities will not elect captains for the coming season. The two schools are the University of Washington and Notre Dame. At both institutions a captain will be appointed for each game by the coach. However, after the season is completed an honorary captain will be elected. nonorary captain will be elected.
Coach Anderson of Notre Dame be-lieves that the abolishing of a perma-nent captain will remove politics from the squad.

State Tracksters to Meet San Mateo Here Saturday

With the prospects of an undefeated season in sight, the San Francisco State track team and field team will open hostilities next Saturday. The San Mateo Junior College spikesters will oppose the Gaters at Kezar Stadium in the first test. Competition will start at 10:30 o'clock.

Five new records were established as the high freshmen won the third annual inter-class track and field meet Saturday at Kezar Stadium. The winning team, the high frosh, scored 88½ points. The low fresh were second with 60 markers, and the low sophomores third with 52½. The juniors and high sophs tied for fourth place with 45 digits each.

Although the class of June '36 Although the Staters are expected to have little difficulty defeating the Bulldogs, the meet should prove interesting from several angles. Naturally, the marks established will be watched with interest and will show the potential greatness of the Gater team.

Burns has run the 440 in 50 flat several times; that was Stan's best mark last year. Ed Donohue will be Smith's running mate in the one-lap event.

Two low sophomores, Harvey Williams and Ed Donohue, led the parade of potential stars when they hung up new records in the 880-yard run and broad jump. Williams beat the previous marks by three seconds, when he ran the half-mile in 2:12. Donohue's best jump, 19 ft. 6½ in., was five inches better than Ru Stone's 1931 performance.

Another of Stone's records, 17.6 seconds, in the high hurdles, was badly-beaten when Cecil Tose, low freshman, ran the event in 17 flat.

Carl Gelatt won the high jump with a leap of five feet six inches, which was half an inch better than Ray Kaufman's previous jump. State's distance men, Dick Davis and Phil Sebastian, will renew the battle which started last semester in the cross-country races when they compete in the mile and two-mile events against Warren Dixon and Bob Cota.

Warren Dixon and Bob Cota.

The half-mile run should be a clean sweep for the Gaters with Paul Gschwend, Harvey Williams, Allan Bell and Phil Sebastian carrying the Purple and Gold banner in that race. Williams ran the 880 in 2:12 in the interclass, but will be facing tougher competition Saturday, and a mark around two minutes would not be surprising.

In the field events the Gaters are man's previous jump.

Homer Trice, high frosh, established a mark in the two-mile run. He ran the eight laps in 11:28, for the only record in that event. The two-mile was not included in previous interches means. class meets.

Charles Pomerantz, former Poly High star and a high freshman at State, led the high scorers of the meet with 18 points to his credit. He won the shot put, discus and pole vault. Alvin Parrish, another member of the winning aggregation, was second highest for the day with 15 digits. Parrish had little trouble winning both sprint races.

In the field events the Gaters are expected to carry off all the major honors with the exception of the pole vault. Runar Stone will compete in the broad jump and high jump and should win both events easily. He will face his toughest competition in the high jump. Some attribute the poor showing of State to the fine twirling of Thurber, San Jose's ace moundsman. Without trying to take any glory from Thurber, it is doubtful if he could have "brought home the bacon" if Drysdale and his consorts had been hitting normally. It was just an off day for State, that's all.

Sneer Not, O Critic

annond-class matter

Destructive criticism is, at best, harmful and an impediment to the growth of any organization or institution. It strikes at pride in achievement, at the ambitions that give zest to work, at the hopefulness of steady advancement. Today its influence is of such magnitude as to color the thoughts of everyone. This freakish branch of cynicism, as it might be called, is especially prevalent on the local campus. An entering or a transfer student coming to State with the willingness, the expectation of becoming a loyal supporter of the college, is startled into sudden withdrawal, upon hearing the many detrimental comments that are made concerning every conceivable problem.

The collegian is not asked to silently accept inconveniences as a part of the acquiring of education. The days when scholars sat on bundles of straw to listen to a teacher are past. It is expected, notwithstanding, that criticism will be constructive, and will be made to those who have the means of remedying the situation. Few things are as senseless as the small talk, complaints and grievances bandied about by groups of people who apparently have no intention of taking measures to correct the evils of which they speak. Perhaps it is because they realize the inanity of their conceptions (or misconceptions) of the question at hand.

An open, fair meeting of difficulties, or better, the adoption of truer values, is the need of those who point the finger of accusation at State

To Arms, Punsters!

Solemn-faced, self-appointed members of the intelligentsia are attempting to sound the death knell for punning. Such a movement should be stifled in its incipiency, for it is contrary to the very essence of democracy. Punning is an amusement which may be indulged in without cost by the masses. Should they, therefore, be deprived of this harmless mental sport? We think not. In addition to the democratic principles it represents, this noble branch of wit and humor also affords the individual an opportunity to exercise his mental alertness. Just as the intellectual processes must be freely used in heated debate rebuttal, so also the participants in punning are frequently called upon to make rapid, illusive mental quests for le mot just. Swift, accurate mental activity is an essential quality for the successful punster.

The anti-punning crusade being conducted by the pseudo-savants is vicious in its subtlety. They do not ascend the soap box and preach to the masses, rather by holding up to ridicule all clever plays upon words, the crusaders are crushing the stimulus to create more and better puns. Scintillating witticisms of the disappearing art are being greeted by jeers instead of cheers.

Perhaps is the common word pun be discarded by its more erudite synonym, paronomasia, it will gain the approval of the sneering intellectuals. If not, we must form a counter crusade to prevent a deceiving mental aristocracy from gaining control in the realm of punning. We must wipe out this gigantic movement to hold an opun season on punsters.

The Lacking Amercia

America is a great nation with all the possibilities of becoming the greatest in the world. She has promoted universal education more liberally than any other country; she has witnessed a great industrial age, and has contributed tremendously to scientific advancement. Indeed, she has done a great deal in the furtherance of the idea of humanitarianed and served in countless were the other neonles of the world. Yet with all this widespread growth of free and far-flung education, with all the great contributions to science, with all the sacrifices for the sake of humanity, with all the lofty ideal for the promotion of international peace, she is criticized, scorned, and hated.

America would have escaped the constant drift of endless criticism from the outside world if she had undergone a further attempt of reforming her internal morality. Her great institutions have failed to impart to the youths of the land desirable conduct. Education has meant to her sons and daughters a mere advance in acquiring the ways by which they could earn material wealth. Liberal education meant to her people the liberty to discard the spiritual value of life, ignoring the real glory that is beyond. Freedom has gone too far. It has gone so dangerously far in invading the domestic life of the people, that it has become difficult to apply the necessary remedy. "The pearl of great price" has passed away. It was sold at a loss. What does America need? Who can bring her back to the place where she began her adventure to greatness. to true greatness? Greece has gone, and Rome has disappeared, but they have made history. America's civilization is declining, but she has not made history. She needs regeneration, a rebirth of unblemished optimism which can be brought about by great reformers. But that optimism is a thought only of the selected few. America's lack is in great men who can be serious enough to acquire that thought.

When the foreign critic points a finger of scorn toward this nation, he often forgets that only three hundred years have passed since civilization was first planted on the western shore of the Atlantic Ocean. The present economic situation has its far-reaching effects, so that men must look with courage and intelligence toward future education in the art

THAT FUNNY MAN AGAIN!

Associated Students of the San Francisco State Teachers College is the title given to the members of our student body. There is a doubt as to whether am a member of this group or not, even though have paid all my fees. It so happened that neither nor anyone else voted to have his picture on his studen body card. Some people recognized the person on their cards as themselves. I didn't, so I tore the picture loose from the card and threw it away. Of course, it was my student body card, because it had my man but without the comic art attached, I was denied free entrance to the last basketball game. The gentle gestures of the doorkeeper were amusing. In fact, he informed me that I could gain admittance by paying the regular charge. I assure you, I thanked him heartily

Will someone please tell me if it is possible to keep me from the remainder of the season's affairs because I haven't been able to find another picture of that funny man that I threw away? -J. D., P. B. 1019.

WHY MEN CATCH COLD

Dear Editor

I'b got a code id by dose, and it's all because of the baste of the members of the faculty in matters of ventilation. A student leaves a room where there is no a window or a door open, the heat is on full force, and the instructor has been complaining about the cold. He enters another, someone in the room exclaims, "My, but it's warm in here." Immediately, all the doors and window are thrown open, regardless of draughts. It doesn't sur prise me that so many of us have colds all the time with such a well-controlled system. -C. D. Box 357

ATTENTION, ORIENTALS

As the name implies, the club is understood to be composed of Oriental -Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Koreans, and others. our motivating factors that brought about its creation re: Unity, co-operation, friendship and helpfulness. These purposes are inspiring, and so cogent that one may realize how significant they are towards achievement of peace, if proper policies are set up and put in use by every spirited Oriental. The club, in fact, is an organization with ideals of peace and good-will among Orientals ir particular, and between Orientals and Occidentals ir

How can such ideals be realized? To answer this uestion, I would say that fulfillment could be reached the second purpose, co-operation, is gained; that is the concerted action of individuals in the attainment of any desired goal. There are a number of Oriental students in the college, fifteen to twenty being Filipinos nearly all members of the club; ten to fifteen Chinese with only two members; five to ten Japanese without member, and one Korean, who is an active member. The ilipinos indicate active support, the Chinese group with two representatives show fair co-operation, but the Japanese have no representation. The reason for this is unaccountable. It is a pity to have such a condition exist Where are the rest of the Oriental students in college the Chinese, Japanese, and other Malays? Can anyone of those concerned come to my rescue by answering the above questions?

Confessions of a Scatterbrain

Good heavens! This is Monday evening and I've an ssay due tomorrow. My chronic mental sterility always nanifests itself on an occasion such as this. I haven't a single idea. Perhaps this old book rack which constantly stares at me will yield a few. "Just a few well-chosen books," the best authors would say But they're all mine duly paid for, and no mavericks. But, oh, how I wish I ould reclaim the strays!

Here's Shakespeare, complete of course, in a service-able leather binding. It will last a life time. It will have to last a life time if I am ever to read the volumes through out. But seldom does a week pass that I do not take it from its shelf, and gently touch those leaves of immortal me upl I looked at the last page of the book and saw that it was numbered 441. When I was half through the volume I saw that there were 441 pages in the first part of the novel alone, and that many more in the second part. This was my introduction to Dickens. I was betrayed into 900 pages of small type, but when I had read these I wished that the Victorian trend was for even onger novels. Dear old Tom Pinch and loveshie Mark Tapley—that hypocrite, Pecksniff, and those despicable wretches, Jonas Chuzzlewit and Mrs. Gamp, are characters which will never fade into dim memory.

There's my volume of Poe. The last friend I lent it to must have read it in the bath tub and fallen asleep. However, it still holds together awaiting some cold, rainy night, when it shall be opened once again before the lo fire to send shivers up and down my spine. Poe's stories cut a deeper impression when read with a knowledge

The De Maupassant is gone. There just remains the place it once occupied. De Maupassant, who could make riend, Ford, "What's the use of trying when a man writes such as this?" And Conrad, one of the most perfect writers of all time. Perhaps it's just as well that it is out of the house. You know, the kids are always investigating. I hope whoever has the volume will return it because there is much in it that I have not read. De Maupassant is too rich to read from beginning to end. He should be treated like fine liquor, a little now and a little then Here's something by Galsworthy. I remember how was coerced into reading the "Forsythe Saga," and as a result, made a resolution thenceforth to tell nothing but the truth. Once when I mentioned the book in an offhand manner, a friend asked me if I had enjoyed read-"Not only did I enjoy it, but I thought it was quite excellent," I glibly lied. Whereupon she advised me that she would promptly read it in that case. Consequently, I was forced to read it so I could be ready for the inevitable discussion and "save face." Since then I have been an ardent reader of the premier contemporary writer of England.

Perhaps all this smacks of charlantry. I wonder is everyone has that uncertain feeling when discussing literature. But remember it is the last resort of a sterile mind. Perhaps also this is written in a tone that Christopher Morley would call "deflated below its intellectual coefficiency." But bear in mind that it is only the makeshift effort of one who is trying to grasp the greatness of literature and is but on the threshold.—Frank Morris.

I was amused to discover that Robert Goffin, Belgian music essayist, ha written a book entitled "Aux Fron-tieres du Jazz." In this book he states that the true heroes of jazz are not the much advertised Whitemans, Lombardos, and Vallees, but the individual virtuosi such as the Dorseys, Trumbauer, Armstrong, Miff Mole, and others. M. Goffin distinguishes between "le jazz strait et hot" and also denotes a type which he calls "les classiques du hot." At last some European has du hot." At last some European has taken a tumble to some form of American music even though we are no given credit for its origination.
